

FROM PUB TO PULPIT

NEW UNTITLED HYMN TO THE TUNE OF LINDEN LEE – By ELIZABETH GREED

*Beneath the bright and shining heavens, we can watch the world go by,
Amazing stars and constellations, flash in velvet sky,
And orbit trails and dusty haze, and gentle sounds of dying days,
We thank you God for your Creation. And the beauty of the Night.*

*By rushing streams and flowing rivers, we can watch the world go by,
Amazing how the ripple quivers, as salmon take the fly.
And gliding fish and sunshine glow, and gentle sounds of waters flow.
We praise you God for your Creation. And the beauty of the Day.*

*Beneath the signs of changing seasons, we can watch the world go by.
The warnings flash and banners beckon, weather changes, seas run high,
And some lose crops in desert sand, and some seem not to understand,
To thank You God for Your Creation, we must steward all Your land.*

© Elizabeth Greed

Written by Elizabeth Greed in 2022 for the From Pub to Pulpit project

We invite you to compose an arrangement of the tune of the folk song
Linden Lee to fit these words and create a modern hymn